The best way to do that is to create a simple graphic with Photoshop's simple features and then add some simple effects to it. This section starts with steps for learning the basics of Photoshop and then moves to creating a simple, static graphic. Selecting the tool of choice

Although Photoshop's interface is divided into panels, the tools you see on the default Photoshop workspace are designed to work together to enable you to create images and add effects. The buttons on the workspace are the Photoshop tools, such as:

The Rectangular Selection tool: The Rectangular Selection tool enables you to select various objects on a canvas. To select an object, first select the tool (the Rectangular Selection tool appears in the Toolbox in the tool group on the left of the workspace) and then press and hold down the Shift key to create a selection around a section of an object. You can then drag to enlarge or shrink that selection. To deselect the object, press the Esc key. Study: Post-Brexit trade deals hamper UK animal health The UK's post-Brexit trade deals could lead to a sharp drop in beef exports, according to a study by industry analysts at Rabobank. The bank's study, commissioned by the Dutch-Flemish Food Fair (VFH), looked at how the UK's trade deals after Brexit would affect exports of beef, pork and milk. VFH is the trade association for all the major Dutch and Flemish food and drink companies, with a combined turnover of €90 billion and employing more than 100,000 people. It estimates that US and global trade deals would wipe the top 15 percent of UK beef, 5 percent of UK pork and 30 percent of the UK dairy and dairy products markets off the map. The report also forecasts that Dutch beef exports could slump by 22 percent and Dutch pork exports by 41 percent, and Dutch milk by 26 percent. The Bank's findings corroborate research by the Cattle Veterinary Association, a British industry body, which said the UK would not be able to compete for the $7.5 billion a year trade deal with the US under current trade negotiations. The Bank's report said UK government prospects for trade deals have been severely damaged, as the EU-US free trade deal has stalled and the US administration has made it clear it will not make a deal with the UK under current negotiation rules. The VFH report said a large number of trade deals between the EU and countries such as South Korea, India, the US and South Africa are not open to the UK, and that there is a risk that a 'hard Brexit' on terms that would not allow for continuity in trade with the EU will lead to other potential countries dropping out of trade arrangements. It said the UK was in danger of becoming a 'global Switzerland', which is not isolated but tends to do business with other countries, as opposed to 'global Britain', which plays an active role on the global stage. 'In the UK, we've seen that meat exports make a significant contribution to GDP, and today's drop in exports could be a significant setback to the British economy. We estimate that the drop in exports could cost the economy 1,000 jobs,' said Klara Wiederkehr, VFH Brexit envoy. The VFH study

For the last two years, the University of Texas at Austin has been putting sensors on its laboratory heat exchangers. So far, the project is known as i-HX. Researchers have been tagging heat exchangers with 2.5-pound buoys that measure things like temperature, moisture, and airflow. Heat exchangers serve an important function in the air conditioning system on our space shuttle: They transfer heat from the spacecraft's exhaust to the air in the shuttle bay, so it gets expelled outside, rather than filling the shuttle with a dense, damp atmosphere. As for the sense of humor — well, the buoys are doing a good job of collecting it.Robbery/Homicide Unit Attacked A-Rod As The Mob Cited Him For the record the perv brothers who flew down to Madison Square Garden earlier this year to get a feel from the DL-colts at the end of the World Series and ended up jumping on a train headed straight for New York.
